

PRES. WILSON'S FUND FOR TOUR OF COUNTRY MAY RUN SHORT

Allowed But $25,000---Tour Might Cost $50,000---Sen. Walsh Saved Springfield's Business---Other Matters at Capital

(Special to The Sun).
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—Senator Walsh succeeded in staving off a proposed reduction of the "manufacture of arms" appropriation in the army bill from $1,000,000 to $500,000 by forcing a rejection of the committee amendment to that effect. Mr. Walsh took the stand that such a reduction would seriously affect the Springfield armory and result in the loss of the plant of many of its oldest and most experienced employees. Mr. Walsh read letters to substantiate his argument and Senator Reed of Missouri sustained the Walsh proposition. It was absolutely necessary, in the face of past experience that the United States should be provided with a ample supply of the best rifles made, and he designated the Springfield rifle the best, as proven in the war. Mr. Walsh met with opposition on part of the committee but called for a vote. It resulted in a tie, whereupon the presiding officer cast a vote in favor of the Walsh men and the committee amendment was lost. Appropriation for manufacture of rifles remaining at one million dollars. The same day Mr. Walsh put in a motion authorizing the secretary of the department of the interior to be authorized to investigate the purpose of betterment, work, conditions of wage earners and to collect information and disseminate the same for the elimination of strikes. This resolution referred to the committee on irrigation.

Wilson's Return
The return of the president to his duties after his seven months absence, Washington is likely to become a deserted city. It is understood the president will appear before the senate and explain, and urge the passage of the peace treaty, sign the waiting supply bill and then immediately start on a swing around the circle to speak for the league. Senators opposing the league are likewise planning to make a similar swing in a counter series of speeches. Congress has planned to agree to a series of three day recesses of the house while this is going on, with a gentlemen's agreement that no business requiring a quorum shall be transacted during that time which will probably occupy a month or more. It is barely possible the senate will agree to the taking of an outright let down by the house for a period of 30 days, while they discuss the treaty in the senate. The interstate commerce committee would remain in session with hearings on the railroad bill, otherwise there would be practically no business on Capitol Hill. No more than three day recess at a time can be taken by either senate or house without consent of the other when congress is in full session. The president is said not to have fully determined how long a tour he will make, on account of the great expense it will involve and he has only $25,000 available for the purpose. It is estimated that to take the presidential party across the continent with the anticipated stop-over, will cost not less than $50,000. Whether or not congress will give that added amount for the purpose is doubtful. Whenever the president travels, he has taken along Mrs. Wilson, his personal physician, Dr. Grayson, a large corps of secretaries, clerks, stenographers, etc.

At that time it had just been settled after a long and bitter fight that Lowell should have a state Normal school. The site offered by Major Carney was not favored and the site on which the school is located was chosen after considerable discussion. The city appropriated $25,000 to pay for the site which included the estate of Joseph G. Peabody, the war mayor of Lowell. This estate fronted on Wilder street near the railroad bridge.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

New Plan For Self Government Under British Flag Urged by Plunkett

LONDON, June 28.—Establishment of self-government in Ireland within the British empire is proposed in a manifesto issued yesterday by the "Irish Dominion League" and signed by Sir Horace Plunkett and other Irishmen.

The proposal, it is claimed, is a great advance over any previous proposed solution for the Irish question, except that the British connection is maintained. Under this plan Ireland would have virtually the same amount of home rule as if she were an independent republic.

The manifesto points out the disadvantages to which Irish products would be exposed if Ireland was a republic severed from the British empire. Mention is made of possible hostile tariffs and it is said that such a position might lose for Ireland her share in any imperial preference which might be established.

Irishmen are urged in the manifesto to unite and to let the British parliament and people know what they desire. The manifesto then outlines what the political status of Ireland would be under the new plan.

Ireland, it is declared, would not be represented at Westminster, but would be a member of the League of Nations and of the imperial conference council or parliament which may be established. Ireland would have complete control over her internal government. The naval and military defense would remain as at present, but no authority but the Irish parliament would have the power to impose conscription service on Irishmen, although Ireland would agree to make contributions to the naval, military and diplomatic services.

In referring to Ulster the manifesto says that with Ireland under the status of a dominion, the rights of minorities would be constitutionally recognized in many ways. The Ulsterites are asked to state what special safeguards they demand, the manifesto adding:

"But if our appeal meets with no response, the Irish dominion league will be prepared to show that the Ulster difficulty can be met in the Irish constitution as analogous difficulties have been met elsewhere in the empire."

In addition to Sir Horace Plunkett, the signers of the manifesto include Unionist candidates, members of the Irish party, leading members of the Irish convention of 1917, 45 Irish peers and baronets, privy councillors, bank and railway directors and lawyers.

WED 25 YEARS

In the old Sun of June 22, 1894, I find an account of the wedding of Agent O'Hare of the board of health, from which I take the following:

"Francis J. O'Hare, the well known inspector in the employ of the board of health, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Kate Hinchey last evening."

The ceremony was performed at St. Peter's parochial residence by Rev. Fr. Ronan. Miss Mamie Hickey, was bridesmaid and Mr. James O'Hare, a brother of the groom, was best man."

Mr. O'Hare has been a most faithful and devoted worker in the health department and no lay man is better informed on health subjects in general than he.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Hare have two beautiful daughters, Miss Helen, a graduate of the Normal school, now teaching at Wayland, and Miss Mary, employed at the local office of the Bay State Street railway.

BARNEY IS CONVICTED

Found Guilty of Manslaughter—Gets 20 Years—Dillon Is Acquitted

BOSTON, June 28.—Herman L. Farney was found guilty of manslaughter last night for the killing of Patrolman Charles E. Deiminger. John Dillon, who was tried with Farney on a charge of murder, was acquitted. The jury was out about seven hours. Farney was sentenced to a state prison term of 15 to 20 years.

Before the case was given to the jury, Farney and Dillon addressed the court, asserting innocence of the crime and asking that they be acquitted.

Farney declared that he fired the shot which killed the officer in self defense. He exonerated Dillon of blame.

"I didn't know," he said, "who was attacking me, whether he was an officer or a private person. I had never carried a gun before and I used it in self defense in a feeling of fear. I am not a murderer."

Deiminger was shot when he went to a garage in Chelsea, to recover a stolen automobile.

THE DYNAMOMETER IS SOME MACHINE

Lowell was visited by a "dynamometer" yesterday but no very great stir was made over it.

The dynamometer mostly interests railroad men and owners of railroads. To describe it accurately would be to say that it is a wonderful piece of mechanism carried on a long passenger typed railroad car which always is coupled next to the engine tender. The dynamometer has wheels and cogs and various attachments in sufficient number so that when its car is attached to a freight train and accompanies the train over a given stretch of road on which the railroad managers desire to get accurate data, a delicately adjusted little pen resting on a sheet of paper makes a record. This sheet of paper subsequently detached from its roll and forwarded to headquarters is afterward returned to the railroad which employed the services of the dynamometer and the six man crew. The experts at headquarters gather data and information from the paper record by which they inform the railroad—in this case the Boston & Maine which is to use the dynamometer car two weeks—how much power is being used to pull a given number of cars over a given grade and distance of track and at what speed the test was made.

From Lowell the dynamometer car was sent to Worcester by way of Ayer. There are only a few of these pieces of railroad apparatus in the country. They represent quite a large investment of money. Consequently visits of the dynamometer to this part of New England are apt to be very rare.

GRADUATES CLASS OF 56

Woods Business College Holds Graduating Exercises at Associate Hall

Woods Business college graduating class of 1919 held its graduating exercises last evening at Associate hall. The diplomas were presented to the 56 members of the graduating class by Mayor Thompson, who congratulated the school and its faculty for the high excellence of the commercial training and education furnished young people who become students of the school, as has been recently proven in the New England commercial college typewriting and other commercial college tournaments.

Music was furnished by Broderick's orchestra and the address of welcome was given by Miss Mildred J. Tinker. The class gift to the school was presented with a short speech made by John J. Delmore. The class gift was a bas-relief with the "Landing of Columbus" as its subject. Principal Elliott F. Wood accepted the gift in behalf of the school. Next followed the presentation of medals in the typewriting contest.

The principal speaker of the evening was to have been Hon. David P. Shaw of Boston. He was unable to arrive during the early part of the program and the time at which he was to have given his address, and as he finally did arrive late he confined his remarks to a short speech of congratulation to the graduates and to pointing out to them what he believed to be the importance of a commercial training to the average young man and woman and the advantage to all communities to have such well trained and experienced young men and women numbered among the workers of the city's business life and activities.

A program of dancing followed the commencement exercises. The list of young people upon whom this long and favorably known commercial college last night conferred diplomas is as follows:

WELL KNOWN FINANCIAL WRITER SAYS, KEEP YOUR OLD CLOTHES

Wool and Cotton Soon to Be Higher Than In Fifty Years—Foodstuffs Are Going to Be Cheaper

BY RICHARD SPILLANE
America's Foremost Financial Writer, Who is a Regular Contributor to The Sun.

Do not throw away your old clothes. In all probability all kinds of woolen and cotton goods will be more costly next fall and winter than at any time in fifty years. If you are prudent you will be as saving of everything from your best suit to the bed clothes as you were in the days when the government was telling you it was a patriotic act to curtail your purchases to bare necessities.

There are men in the trade who declare ready-made men's suits that now sell for $35 will command $75 within a year. That seems extreme, but it is not impossible.

There is a pronounced shortage of wool threatening America. There is likelihood also of a pronounced shortage of cotton. Supply and demand govern price-making. If, coincident with shortage of supply, there is no curtailment in demand the result in price depends only upon how insistent is the demand and what is the ability of the consumer to pay.

Great Britain is well fixed as regards wool. To the quantity the British government controls in her colonies, approximately 700,000,000, she has in stock early this year about 150,000,000. This, with what comes forward from new clips, will give a nice surplus to the British. Great Britain is after world trade and, naturally, will use her strong position in relation to wool to promote her efforts in restoring her ruptured trade connections in various parts of the world and especially where she desires to supplant Germany or forestall America.

The Wool Situation
The United States is in a bad position as regards wools. The government has disposed of its stock of wool over which it held control in the war period. Much of this has gone to the mills. The government holdings aggregated 288,000,000.

Beginning July 1 the western growers will market their clips. They expect and in all likelihood will receive much more for their wool than the government for what it sold.

America does not raise enough wool to meet its ordinary requirements. It cannot possibly obtain this year, as much as it needs. That means higher prices for wool.

There is another shortage threatened. That is in manufactured goods. There have been long drawn out strikes in the woolen mills these last few months in which enough time forward from new clips, will give a

Quarter Century Ago

Quarter of a century ago, according to The Sun of that year, the graduating exercises of the high school were held in Huntington hall on the site of the present Y.M.C.A. building. It was then the main hall of the city. Principal C. W. Irish presided and Governor Greenhalge presented the Carney medals in the following brief address:

Thirty-five years ago I stood on the same platform and either by design or accident I was the first one of the graduates to be presented with a Carney medal. Of course the medals will not in themselves insure you of affluence, idleness and happiness, but they testify to the fact that you have laid a foundation for a noble character and that you have become studious. They should inspire, encourage and console you. There is a deep significance in this presentation and ceremony. I wish you all success and happiness. Honest labor and consecrated endeavor are always welcome in this commonwealth."

The recipients of the Carney medals that year were:

James A. Nixon.
Carl W. Waterson.
Francis A. Simpson.
Florence E. Flemings.

Lady Lookabout

At last we have found it! A gown that is sensible, practical, inexpensive, suitable for all occasions, formal or informal, business or social, always fresh, no laundry bills, for the young woman or her mother—for a column I could go on enumerating the virtues of it. It is the gown of dark printed material, cotton voile, or georgette crepe, or just ordinary muslin. The woman, for of course it was a woman who thought out this gown, has forever endeared herself to the women of the summer of 1919. Add to all these attributes that the gown is lovely and universally becoming, and what a boon we have! The prices are surprisingly low and, better, the home dressmaker can produce a creation equal to that shown in the best stores.

Fighting the "Reds"

It is most significant that Dr. Payson Smith, commissioner of education, has come out publicly in an urgent plea to the school teachers of the state to fight the "red" propaganda which is spread broadcast through the country. He realizes that the man who is a Bolshevik at heart is hopeless as a citizen. Only the most stringent laws which will inspire him with fear, can restrain him. Should he for a moment consider himself outside the pale of the law, his Bolshevik sentiments would sway him to any end. Realizing this, Dr. Smith realizes that the only hope of the nation lies in teaching to its youth the ideals of true American citizenship. To quote Dr. Smith: "Public school teachers should in the most constructive way they can, teach and explain the ideals of American citizenship, making clear to the children in terms appropriate to the several grades, the cost, the value of our institutions and their own obligation to resolve to live to be worthy of them."

Laws have failed to crush this insidious foe to democracy. Now the hope of the country lies in the teachers of its schools. Here and here alone, may be instilled the right ideals, the spirit towards God, country, and neighbor which no law, however well supported, can create. The good Jesuits say, "Let me have charge of a child's training during his first twelve years, and we care not who has him later." Ideals of patriotism and citizenship are not acquired from an occasional talk, or lecture, or book. Long years of patient, day-by-day training and teaching—these alone accomplish the desired end; these alone so mold the boy and girl, that laws become a thing aloof from them, something necessary only to the infrequent man or woman of distorted vision. So it is to the teachers of the country the wise men are appealing, knowing that they hold the key to the destiny of future generations.

Saving and Spending Wisely

I suppose we really are a wasteful nation. Everybody says we are, anyway, and generally that settles it. A contest in the Boston schools in which 70,000 children competed for a prize for the best essay on Thrift has just come to an end. The first prize was won by a little girl ten years old. Here is her essay:

"One day I said to my cousin, 'How could I ever save up 25 cents, I am so little?'"

A bright-eyed boy answered, "Why, of course, you could. You know your mother always throws all the rubbish away. Now, instead of throwing it away, why don't you give it to the junkman? He will give you some money for it, and then you can buy a Thrift stamp."

"And," said Rita, "if you always keep 'little by little' in your mind, some day you may have a war savings stamp." And she was right, for two months later I did have a war savings stamp, and I earned it by saving little by little at a time.

During the past two or three years I have heard so much of thrift, saving and economy, that I am forced to confess that I am somewhat bored by the whole thing. It may be that having been more than ever compelled to practice these homely virtues, they have lost much of the enchantment a lesser acquaintance had given them.

Now nobody admires Benjamin Franklin more than I. His various exhortations in regard to coralling the elusive penny are truly inspiring, until a more inspiring advertisement, or selling agent, or bit of lingerie, or some of those things which did not exist in the days of the wise Benjamin, coaxes away said penny and cousin, and his sisters, and his aunts. So strongly am I convinced that if a person succeeds in saving a dollar, in almost every case something which appeals to that person's desire more than the dollar, I wonder if the teachers of the doctrine of thrift are teaching the whole doctrine when they have taught to hoard? Why not carry the lesson a bit farther, and teach to spend wisely? Everyone of us can spend well, but do we all spend wisely? I cannot help feeling that the person who can spend wisely and make every dollar tell on a shopping tour is a greater source of happiness to himself and a greater asset to the community than he who becomes miserly that it pains him to part with a cent. When the time comes that I will think more of a dime than an ice cream soda, or when the feel of a dollar or two in my purse is more satisfying than a satin camisole, or a pair of silk stockings, or a new bit of neckwear, then I'll gather up my remaining pennies I may have, and "cash in."

HOT WEATHER HEALTH FOR BABY—BRAN BATHS FOR PRICKLY HEAT

BY MRS. MAX WEST

Child-care Expert of U. S. Children's Bureau

Every healthy baby should have a daily bath.

In very hot weather he should have two baths a day—one in the morning and a cool sponge bath before going to bed at night.

When hot weather brings to babies the plague of prickly heat there is nothing better and more soothing than the bran bath.

For this fill a salt bag or muslin bag with ordinary bran, put the filled bag into warm water, and soak and squeeze the bag until the water becomes milky. Put the baby into the bath for five or ten minutes, dashing the water gently over his whole body, and dry him gently with a soft towel, and without rinsing off the bran. Use no soap. Just leave the baby's skin gently with the milky water. The bran bath may be repeated daily as long as the skin is inflamed.

The ordinary daily bath is usually given the baby in mid-morning, after the bowels have moved, and before the mid-morning feeding.

Bathe the baby in a comfortably warm room, being sure he is protected from drafts. Use a small infant's bath tub, for babies under a year old. Test the water with the point of the elbow. When it feels neither hot nor cold to the elbow it is right for the baby's skin. Never add hot water to the tub after the baby is put in. Never leave a young baby alone in the tub. Watch and hold him constantly. Before beginning to undress the baby for his bath gather all the materials needed. A mild soap, soft towels, powder, the clean clothes, the rubber apron for the mother, the tub, water, etc., should be placed in easy reach. Soft cheesecloth is excellent to use in washing the baby. The towels should be old and soft.

Before the baby is entirely undressed, wash his head and scalp gently with a very little soap, being careful not to get it in his eyes, and rinsing the soap off well.

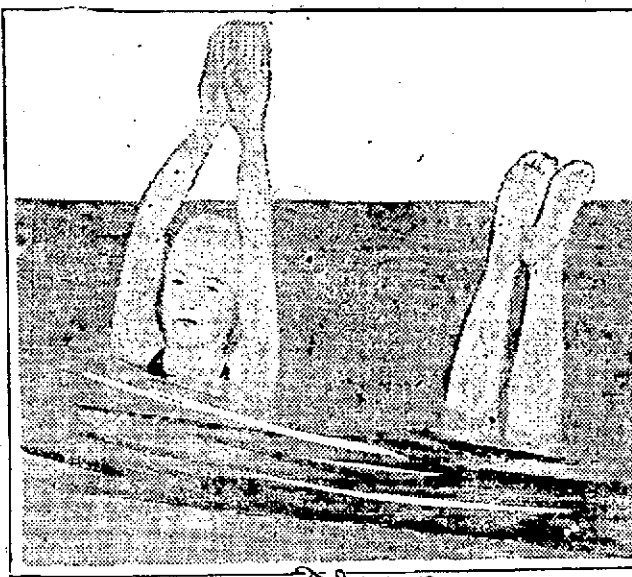

After the head is washed, remove the clothes and lather with a soapy cloth the entire body. Then set the baby in the tub, holding him with the left hand and arm and sponging the body with the right hand. Remove the baby from the bath and wrap him in the towel, patting the skin gently to dry it.

A little very fine talcum powder should be used in the folds and creases of the skin. Many mothers use far too much, thus clogging the pores of the skin. Do not apply powder until skin is well dried.

In summer, the only dress the baby needs is the diaper and a thin slip.

For mothers who cannot easily obtain the bran for the prickly heat bran baths for summer, there are two other simple baths, cooling and healing to inflamed skins, which may be used for babies suffering with heat rash.

The starch bath is cooling and is made by dissolving 1 cupful of ordinary laundry starch in 1 gallon of water, and using as directed for the bran bath. Another cooling bath is the soda bath, made by dissolving 2 tablespoons of plain baking soda in a cupful of water, and adding it to 1 gallon of the warm bath water.

Treading Water With Hands Tied, and picking up pennies from the bottom are two fancy stunts taught by Miss Breckenridge.

"WALTZING" IN WAVES IS AN EASY STUNT

This is the fifth article on swimming written exclusively for The Sun by Marjorie Breckenridge, famous swimming instructor of the Y.W.C.A.

Swimming resembles dancing more than any other form of exercise, particularly where the strokes and breathing are smooth and rhythmic. Just as the dancer has beautiful and unusual feats, so also has the swimmer.

Waltzing in the water is easy to perform, by making a complete turn over with each arm stroke. This is called also the revolving crawl. It is much more beautiful if the legs are kept straight and the flutter kick used.

Holding the breath under water for a very long time is unwise. Always exhale while doing stunts underneath. Swimming like a porpoise is a simple underwater stunt. Scull along the surface of the water, take a deep breath and dive down to the bottom breathing out; then give a push and glide to the top, and repeat.

To roll like a log, lie flat on the water, arms and legs straight, roll over and over by a little twist of the body only.

Girls who have learned to tread water can do all sorts of amazing things, such as carrying a tray full of cups and saucers, a parasol and fan, or a lighted candle.

Swimming with the hands and feet tied is not so difficult as it sounds. Try it first with just the hands tied, then just the feet, and last both.

Much of the fun connected with swimming is taking part in meets at the beach or summer resort. If you are going to try for a medal or other distinction, first find by timing yourself just which stroke and method of breathing gets you through the water quickest. Find out whether you are better at the 50 or 100-yard race. Stay as long as possible in your forte. You must start by learning the racer's dive, however. This is a shallow dive, but sends you as far as possible. If a girl is brave and has good lung capacity she may also try for the plunge for distance. It consists of a very powerful racer's dive, gliding motionless on the face under water as long as possible. The distance counted is from the takeoff to where the hands touch bottom before the plunger comes up.

MIDSUMMER NIGHTS' DREAMS

COME IN OUTE PAJAMAS—SOME

NIGHT APPAREL, BETTY

BY BETTY BROWN

If you have seen some of the newest summer sleep garments you know why poets rave over "sweet sleep." It's simply lovely to go to bed these nights in the adorable confections offered by lingerie creators. The old-fashioned nightie is practically passe, and is superseded by pajamas and cozzies and bloomers, and other variations of the bifurcated garment once sacred to the male of the species.

Imagine climaxing the rites of the cold cream jar with the donning of this white crepe, sleeveless slip, ending in full bloomers and cream net ruffles, and over it a coatee of Victory gold crepe, with a flowing sash, and lace ruffles and pink ribbons galore! Or, for her sister who loves the Bohemian touch, some artist has achieved this pajama suit in rose-colored wash satin banded with silver braid and silver lace and tasseled. Even curl papers would look charming under the rose and silver tam cap.

NEW SUMMER PLAY FROCK—THIS

CAN BE MADE IN AN HOUR

OR LESS

BY BETTY BROWN

Really, mothers, there is something new under the sun—and here it is in a design for a play frock which could be made in an hour or less. This smart looking little garment for young maids from 5 to 8 years old has just two seams to its name. It is cut in two pieces of exactly the same shape and size, and seamed in the shoulder and from one under-arm to the other, with bound openings for the gay little legs to slip through at the proper spots. It opens down the back just enough to get into. Made of crinkly crepe, or rough silk, with washable tassels, it's easy to make, easy to launder, and easy to look at.

lunch, while your thoughts travel toward a lighter, daintier affair. Anyhow, it's well to store up a few notes on both kinds.

If the weather is too warm to allow thoughts of hearty food, anyone, man or woman, will be most refreshed after a meeting, by a buffet lunch of berries, other strawberries or raspberries, ice cream, coffee and cake or cookies.

But if they have an appetite for something more, a buffet supper may be enlarged to this:

Coffee, bouillon (both in large urns), sliced, cold boiled ham, potato salad, home-made Parker House rolls, pickles.

Or a variation of this kind:

Sandwiches piled high on large plates—good, old fashioned sliced ham sandwiches, of cheese and tomato sandwiches, bananas, coffee or cocoa.

Another lighter lunch is an old familiar: cheese, salt crackers doughnuts, coffee, olives.

GOVERNMENT FIXES PRICE OF ALL BREAD

The Friend Brothers baking company has today made an announcement concerning the fluctuation in bread prices which is of interest to the community-at-large, because, anything affecting food and the price at which it is sold, must invariably be of some interest.

"Perhaps some explanation is warranted regarding the recent raise in the price of bread, owing to the variety of prices at which bread is being sold just as present. The price of flour has advanced from $3 to $4 a barrel since the armistice was signed, and the wages in our industry have got to keep pace with other grades of skilled help. This and the continued advance in price of other commodities which enter into the baking business have forced the advance in price.

"Our government, through its representatives, has announced, after investigation, that the price of bread wholesale, should be 10 cents per pound in order that the industry get a fair return on its product. The price has only been advanced to 9 cents per pound, which is still below what we are allowed by the government. Every baker is still under a license. This is one of the rules which was in force during the war, which has not been revoked.

"We quote from the Bakers' Weekly of June 15, 1919, of the conference held in New York city under the direction of United States Wheat Director, Mr. Julius H. Barnes, and from the official statement of the American Association of the Baking Industry, 'that all bakers using above 50 barrels of flour per month will be licensed. It will be necessary also to sign a contract with the United States Grain corporation in order to obtain indemnification and protection. This contract provides for a reduction in prices of bread according to the reduction or increase of at least 65 cents in the price of a bushel of wheat.'

"This means that we are to take the prevailing price of bread as a standard. Therefore, bread will be sold subject to government control for some time to come and the baker who complies with the government order will have no fear of trouble from this source.

"Quality of bread has a great deal of bearing on the price, and quality is what counts in food for the health of the household. Friend's Milk Bread is of superior quality and needs no fancy name to sell it."

Norma Talmadge's latest picture, "By Right of Conquest," is in its final stage, and is said to be one of the most thrilling in which this charming and versatile star has appeared. In one of the scenes, which were taken on and near a deserted island off Miami, Florida, a yacht catches fire while the guests are having a costume ball on the deck, and Miss Talmadge is forced to jump overboard and swim to the island, where an interesting love-story unfolds.

What better food can you use in your home than bread made from milk and the very highest grade flour? Our Milk Loaf is this kind of bread, and manufactured as it is, under the very best conditions and from the very best known methods, it is the best loaf of bread.

Anybody can "throw the bull," but this bull can throw most anybody. A Salinas, Cal., cowpuncher is doing a little smooth work on a rough job, getting ready for the eighth annual California Rodeo at Salinas, June 25th-29th.

SACO-LOWELL FILMS

ADVERTISE OUR CITY

Lowell people have been surprised and delighted this week to learn that the Saco-Lowell company with characteristic enterprise and push is to supplement its sales department's work of pushing sales of textile machinery in foreign countries, with motion picture films showing the Lowell and other plants of the company and showing the actual process of making textile machinery.

Within six weeks Japanese manufacturers will be viewing with interest these films made in New England. The Japanese will be reading the captions printed in the Japanese language just as in some of the most important South American countries the films will be exhibited with the explanations printed in the Spanish language which is, of course, the universal language of the South American continent. The Saco-Lowell corporation, indeed, seems to be one of the few American concerns doing a foreign business with foresight enough to give its foreign customers liberal credit terms and to send its machinery to foreign parts skillfully and carefully crated, two very great and essential things in the foreign export business of American industries.

BAD TIRE EASTERN

CANNOT MAKE NEW

The work done by the Eastern Vulcanizing company whose place of business is at 202 Church street is so complete and so much is accomplished even with tires the owner would believe were fit only for the junk shop, that, in talking with the manager and seeing samples of the work done by Eastern Vulcanizing company, the prospective patron is led to believe hardly any tire can be said to be so badly worn that this establishment cannot "bring it back."

Of course reason has to be used in all things but Eastern Vulcanizing company claims it positively can do the best work on blowouts, rim cuts, broken beads and worn and loose treads of any place in the city, its work, of course, including all that pertains to the general subject of scientific retreading. The retreading at this establishment is done by the factory process. The telephone number is 1955-M, and work is called for and delivered.

PAINTER DUFRESNE

DOING MANY JOBS

W. M. Dufresne, carriage and automobile painter, whose place of business is at 593 Broadway, finds that his business is sustaining itself in good volume, practically in as large a volume as was the case during the spring when, of course, the most painting business of all kinds is customarily done.

Dufresne is an overall and jumper man himself, and he is assisted by three other capable and experienced workmen. He has in fact had so much business this last spring that his shop has at all times been crowded and he has seriously considered getting new quarters that would offer more space and better facilities. The telephone number of this establishment is 1744 and arrangements can be made so that Dufresne will call at your garage or stable and see the work you contemplate having done on a carriage, wagon, auto or truck and after seeing it, giving you an estimate of what it will cost to have a workmanlike job done.

McAULIFFE EXPERT

IN ALL GLASS WORK

P. D. McAuliffe, who carries on his business with his home at 43 Shaffer street as his headquarters and office, is a specialist in all kinds of glass as well as dealing in it. His line includes French mirrors, store fronts, leaded glass as well as repairing show cases and replacing broken auto windshield.

Mr. McAuliffe has no expensive office or shop rent to pay and can offer his patrons, old and new, skilled service at all times at the most reasonable prices. The McAuliffe telephone is 4095 and if your problem is one involving any kind of glass, it would be well to get in communication with him and get his advice and prices.

MERCIER'S BREAD IS

BEST STAFF OF ALL

Bread is the staff of life, as an old saw has it, and if one is to lean on the staff of life, obviously it will be well to lean on as good a staff as it is possible to obtain.

Consequently when E. Mercier, for over 20 years connected with the baking business in Lowell as a salesman, asserts that his Golden Crust bread is absolutely the bread of best quality with the best quality of ingredients used, it is probable that his claims are worthy of consideration on the part of the prudent and thrifty housewife. The model bakery owned by Mr. Mercier is at 31 Farmland road and is open at all times to inspection by the general public. Nearly all Lowell grocers both sides of the river sell Golden Crust bread, and women who have now used it, many months furnish enough to keep the Mercier bakery busy turning out many thousand loaves of bread every week.

The local evening newspaper is the paper that reaches the home when the whole family is there to read it. The Sun fills this field in Lowell.

PAINTING WAY OUT OF JAIL

Here's modern prison method hot off the pallet. John Schuid, artist, went broke in Oakland, Cal., and stole several suits of clothes from J. J. Krieg, merchant. The judge, by Krieg's consent, is permitting Schuid to paint his way out of jail. When he finishes six pictures he will be free. Krieg gets the pictures.

coat of linen coming just below the waist line and a little jockey cap of the same material. That is all. And does someone ask what has become of the type of dainty girls who not so long ago could swim and ride in splendid fashion even though there was a skirt somewhere in sight? There ain't no such animal now, or if there is she's caged as the rara avis.

Brazilian President Honored

Dr. Pessoa, president elect of Brazil and who stopped over in Washington on his way from Paris, got a royal reception here. The state department gave him a welcome out along the lines of European formality. He was met at the station by the acting secretary of state and a corps of high officials, all in high silk hats, despite the temperature of more than 90 degrees. There was a troop of cavalry from Fort Myer resplendent in full uniform; and many other outsiders and attendants as the distinguished visitor rode from the station to a fine private residence which has been put at his disposal during his visit. Sunday Secretary of Navy Daniels entertained a distinguished company on board the Mayflower in his honor. There was a luncheon, a trip down the Potomac to Mt. Vernon where the Brazilian placed a wreath on the tomb of Washington.

FOODS ON AND OFF THE MARKET

From the bureau of markets, U. S. department of agriculture, come frequent suggestions to help the housewife in timely food programs. For closing June and early July, a summary of a few of these will not be amiss.

Tennessee is now supplying the market with new summer apples.

Home-grown, or at least "north" grown, strawberries are coming from Michigan in large proportion now. It is a good time to can them.

Among the fruits and vegetables which are filling the market stalls to the top now are pineapples, potatoes, rhubarb, apricots, peppers, lettuce, radishes, oranges, spinach, cantaloupes, young onions, bananas, cabbage and string beans. And, by the way, producers are reported as admitting that they have had a crop of cantaloupes this year half again as large as that of last year. Accordingly, their prices are low. Concerning potatoes, this is a good time to use them as much as possible. The prevailing prices are lower in proportion than the prices of almost any other vegetables, and their abundance may make part of the crop a loss unless consumers take a hand in affairs. Besides, old potatoes from northern states are coming into the markets in large supplies, and on account of the big new crop, and the hot weather, have lowered in price tremendously.

A moderate supply is on hand in most places of watermelons, peaches, tomatoes, celery, lemons, onions, plums, cherries, carrots, cucumbers and asparagus.

As for such things as sweet corn, raspberries and blueberries, they are scarce at this time.

The local evening newspaper is the paper that reaches the home when the whole family is there to read it. The sun fills this field in Lowell.

FIELD MARSHAL FRENCH

Sensational Charges Made Against British Commander
Who Attacks Asquith

BY RICHARD SPILLANE
Foremost American Economist and Staff Writer for The Sun

After every war there are sidelights thrown upon the crises of the struggle, on the big events of the campaigns, on the mistakes or victorious moves of generals and on the parts played by statesmen or politicians in shaping the nation's course. Sometimes reputations are destroyed. Rarely, however, has a man who played so big a role as did Field Marshal French, for more than two years commander of the British forces in France, suffer such ignominy as he has through the recent publication of his book on the war.

In this book Marshal French practically accuses the Asquith government of responsibility for his early failures through neglect to furnish munitions to him as he demanded or to support him otherwise. Only through the change in government did it become possible for him to get shells in quantity as desired, he asserts, and the early delay handicapped him dreadfully.

His charges caused a considerable sensation, but it was mild in comparison with that which followed Asquith's rejoinder.

Asquith showed that every requisition of the field marshal was filled promptly and that while the marshal was expressing his gratitude to Mr. Asquith and his associates he was writing to its opponents of them as "this supine government of sluggards

"The Man of Mystery," big, blonde, apparently attached to U. S. navy, picked up in a daze in a London street.

WHO IS 'THIS AMERICAN MAN OF MYSTERY' IN U. S. LONDON HOSPITAL?

(N.E.A. Special to The Sun)
LONDON, Eng., June 28.—"The mystery man of Mayfair," United States naval hospital attaches came to call him.

His name may be Seely—it may be something else.

He thinks his home is in the Great Lakes region of the United States and St. Paul sounds familiar to him.

But his memory is mostly a blank. The mystery man was found, clad only in his underclothing and a pair of shoes, lying in a dazed condition near the Curzon hotel in Mayfair. His underclothing was of the United States navy and naval trousers and hat were found in the garden of a nearby house. The shoes bear the initials "A.G."

The night porter of the Hotel Curzon found the mystery man.

"I ran across to him and raised his head," says the porter. "He murmured, 'Oh, God, I won't sign it! I think he said it twice.'"

"His legs were bare and scorched as though he had been dragged over a step. His boots were unlaced."

"I thought he might have been and paralyzed, with its lethargic head."

Nothing more was heard of him until he was taken to the hospital. He was found in the hospital in a dazed condition, and his identity may be there established. For despite publication of his picture and story in the London papers, and the visits of many members of the American Expeditionary Force to the naval hospital, no one has been able to tell who the man of mystery is.

Doings of the Screen Artists

In his newest Metro picture now nearing completion entitled "Easy to Get," Bert Lytell has the smallest cast of principals ever engaged to support him since he has been starring in the Paramount productions. There are only six important roles in the entire original story written by John H. Blackwood, and one of them is Lytell's starring role of Jimmy Slocum, Jr., speed-king and speed-drift, leaving but five leading characters in support. Gertrude Selby will play the feminine lead.

"God's Outlaw," is the title of the latest Bushman-Bayne picture, and will be released early in July. It is said that in this picture the well known screen star team has accomplished its best work, with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in the best fitting roles ever offered them.

"In Secret," Pearl White's latest Pathe serial based on stories by Robert W. Chambers, is now in the last stages of completion, and will probably have a local appearance in the next few weeks. Walter McGrail is Miss White's new leading man, and prominent in the cast also is Major Wallace McCutcheon, a veteran of the great war.

Charles Ray will soon be seen in "The Crooked Strake," a new picture upon which he has been at work at the local studios. The story was written for Ray by Julian Josephson and tells of an innocent youth being made the tool of a band of crooks.

Harry Carey is at work on the early scenes of another five reel western melodrama entitled, "Jim of the Rangers." The story was written by G. E. Lancaster, and Gloria Hope and Claire Anderson will play the leading feminine roles.

Dustin Farnum, Frank Keenan and the Mary Pickford company are between pictures. Alan Edwards is busy with his production of "The Woman in the Moon." Kerrigan has not yet completed his picturization of "A White Man's Chance" and Sessue Hayakawa is busy with his new picture, "The Illustrious Prince."

Al Ray is fair and Elinor Fair is dark, and their camera man declares that when their heads are together in the "final hug" he gets a half tone every time. He thinks he ought to get a commission from the publicity department.

MOVIE BRIEFS

Clothes are getting scarce at some of the studios since the weather became warm.

Bessie Barriscale broke up a scene the other day because an arm was marched up her left arm.

Dolly Moran will return to the screen in some new Mack Sennett comedies.

Madge Kennedy was to be tread by a bear the other day but the bear didn't know they were just in fun and insisted on going right up the tree after Madge and thus ended a beautiful day.

Mabel Norman has adopted a baby burr.

Mack Bennett is making a burlesque on "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Margarita Fisher has been granted a divorce from Harry Pollard.

Edith Clayton's next is "Men, Women and Money."

Alice Brady is now Mrs. James L. Crane.

Helene Chadwick will play opposite Tom Moore in his next production.

Ethel Clayton has returned from her vacation in Japan.

John Emerson and Anita Loos are to be married soon.

Mae Marsh (Mrs. Louise Lee Arms) has a baby girl.

Earle Williams is working on "The Wolf." Jane Novak will play opposite.

The Lee Kiddles will make a series of two reel comedy dramas.

Two dozen bucking bronchos have been purchased by Goldwyn for "Will Rogers' Four picture and all have been named after the stars.

Bert Lytell has refused to play a dual role preserved by a submitted scenario. One characterization is that of a monkey.

SOME TOP NOTCHERS ON THE STRAND SCREEN NEXT WEEK—SACRED CONCERT TOMORROW

Kitty Gordon, Bert Lytell, Madeline Travers and Evelyn Nesbit will appear the coming week on The Strand Screen. You can't afford to miss seeing them in their latest and best picturizations.

For the sacred concert on Sunday the following vaudeville acts will be given:—Pall Mall Trio, Smith & King, Burt Murray, Neville & Stetson, and Miss Margaret McDonough. Alice Joyce in "The Highest Bidder" will be the feature picture.

The pony contest for the most popular boy or girl in Lowell or suburbs is going along with added interest. Daily, many contestants have already entered and more are expected. The prize—a Shetland pony and cowboy riding outfit—will be given to the one having the largest total in coupons. The Strand will give a continuous performance at this theatre the "Night Before."

"The Lion's Den," the latest Metro play, in which Bert Lytell is starred, will be the feature at The Strand for the first three days of the coming week. This is the second story from the pen of Frederick Orin Bartlett, the noted author, in which the star has appeared—the first being "The Spend-er." Both these stories were featured by the Saturday Evening Post. "The Lion's Den" tells of a young city man who desires to save the love of his flock from the evils of the street by offering them, instead, a well-equipped club. How his project seems doomed to failure through the lack of funds, and his ultimate decision to enter the "lion's den of commerce," and earn the money himself, are incidents which make the play one of unusual strength and gripping appeal. It is long with gripping moments though generously lightened by flashes of humor distinctive to the young actor. There is also a romance of charm and beauty which crowns the efforts of the young hargman with deserving happiness. Mr. Lytell is surrounded by a cast of noteworthy players, among whom are Alice Lake, Joseph K. Pennington, Edward J. Connelly, Augustus Phillips, Howard Crumpton, Seymour Rose, Alice Nowland and Mother Anderson. The play was directed by George D. Baker.

"Playthings of Passion" is the remarkable title of the latest super-feature in which Kitty Gordon is starring under the management of United Pictures Theatres, Inc., and which is to be shown during the first three days of the week. Always widely famous for her marvelous fashion-setting display of exquisite gowns, Miss Gordon takes full advantage of the opportunities in "Playthings of Passion" to wear a series of gorgeous costumes, luxurious robes and hats de luxe unprecedented in any of her previous screen or stage appearances. Richly adorned as the production is, it by no means depends on the splendor of costumes and magnificent settings for its strength. A powerful story has been written for Miss Gordon by the well-known playwright, William Anthony McGuire, while the direction of Wallace Worley and Robert Brunton's masterly supervision once again have created a superlative and splendid effect and remarkable beauty. The story has a wide appeal, dealing as it does with both life in "society" and in the tenement district, and through it all there runs the never failing note of thrilling interest that, being human, unfailingly appeals to humanity at large.

The soloist for the week will be Miss Harriet Moran, one of Lowell's most promising soloists, whose past efforts before the public have made her genuinely popular. The comedy will be one of those funny Bill Parsons affairs, and the latest Universal Weekly will also be shown.

For the last three days of the week the management will present that strikingly handsome screen star, Madeline Travers, in the latest William Fox production, "When Fate Decides." In this offering the star is said to do the best work of her career. Reports from theatrical circles, where this picture has been shown, indicate that it is exceptionally strong in dramatic interest and pleasing romance. The story also offers Miss Travers to wear gowns that will be interesting to patrons, particularly the women folk. The role portrayed by her is that of an untamed wife who struggles bravely against unhappiness and finally comes into her own and finds love and peace. The supporting cast is exceptionally strong.

A great moral lesson is the aim of the picture, "A Fallen Idol," in which

MRS. HARRIS ALWAYS PICKS A WINNER

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, June 28.—Ninety-nine times out of a hundred she picks a winner!

That's the business record of Mrs. Henry B. Harris, young and lovely widow of Henry B. Harris, the famous theatrical manager—and now the first and only woman manager in the game.

Mr. Harris was one of the victims of the Titanic disaster. He left a fortune and a business to his widow, and she promptly took charge of the business and has carried it along as successfully as her husband.

Mrs. Harris is the first woman to make an unqualified success of the business side of the theatrical game. She owns outright three theatres, the Fulton, the Harris and the Hudson. She comes into town every morning and reads plays, attends rehearsals to a smuggling friend posing as a wealthy club man. The play moves along with many interesting and thrilling situations, and in the end things are straightened out satisfactorily to the heroine and her lover.

A Sunshine comedy and a new Weekly will help make the bill unusually strong. And don't forget the fact that The Strand is the "coolest spot in town."

"You can't fool even some of the people all of the time," is the woman manager's motto—and it works.

"There is always a reason for success," she said to me, "and there is always a reason for a failure. The public is always right. If a play does not succeed it is the fault of the producer. Such excuses as 'the play was over the heads of the people,' or 'the times are not right for this type of play,' are all nonsense. There is always room for a good play."

"This young and pretty little woman of gold brown hair can speak with the authority of experience for she has made at least 16 New York productions besides having decided which of the plays of other producers are destined for success and therefore eligible to be booked into her houses. And up to the present, she has registered 99 per cent efficiency. She has an uncanny knack of sensing a success at the tryout of a play that seems to others to be a dismal failure."

"People have often remarked to me," added Mrs. Harris, "how much applause means to an actor or an author. Oh, what it means to the heart of a producer—true spontaneous applause. One must do that to go on, though a single success will compensate for five failures. But my real recompense is the pleasure of the audience not the box office statistics."

The smallest republic in the world, so far as area is concerned, is St. Goust, situated in an almost inaccessible part of the Basse-Pyrenees. St. Goust is hardly a square mile in area, with a population of practically 130 persons, who rule themselves. The smallest self-governed state in the world in regard to population is Tavolara, an island but little known, off the north coast of Sardinia. It is about five miles long, with an average width of half a mile, yet it is a free and independent republic of about 70 inhabitants, who are their own rulers.

REP. CORBETT'S STAND ON HIGH SCHOOL

Rep. Thomas J. Corbett of the Lowell legislative delegation and also a member of the legislative committee on municipal finance before whom, as a committee, a hearing was held Monday of this week relative to the city of Lowell being given authority to borrow outside its debt limit, the sum of $1,500,000 to build the high school annex, today stated he had a desire to have Lowell citizens know how he stood on this matter, not only from the standpoint of his being a member of the legislature but as a citizen interested in having the municipal tax rate kept as low as possible.

Speaking of what he intends to advocate before the committee Rep. Corbett said:

"I will not advocate in committee authority to borrow the colossal sum of $1,500,000 for the new high school in addition to the $700,000 previously authorized, or a grand total of $2,200,000. I firmly believe that I would be doing a positive injustice to the citizens of Lowell and taxpayers of the city to assent to such a proposition.

I have given careful thought to the matter because of the responsibility which rests upon me as a member of the committee. It is not my purpose to obstruct the erection of the new high school. In fact, my attitude will assure its erection much more quickly than the attitude of those advocating an amount of $1,500,000.

I will urge the committee to recommend to the legislature authority to borrow $750,000, instead of $1,500,000. This sum, together with $425,000 already authorized and available, will give a total of $1,175,000 to build the new high school with the site already paid for. I doubt very seriously that I could get the committee to look with favor upon an amount of $1,500,000 which would mean the tying up of a whole proposition for another year. No doubt, present plans will have to be modified some to erect the building on this amount; but why should it not be done?"

allow that next to money invested in industries, the next most important investing angle is that which concerns buying realty.

Big Demand for Realty

Selling real estate is the great business today, authorities say. Never was the demand for realty so great and never has there been a time when such high prices could be secured for real estate. It is a "seller's market" with all the significance that that expression means. Money is easing up, banks are commencing to loan it out again on houses and it is probable that in another year the interest rate may come down from the present rate of 6 per cent to 5 per cent.

In connection with the growth of business at the registry of deeds office it is pertinent to the subject to call attention to the fact that this office is regarded all over the state as having the best system of indexing found in a registry of deeds office in the entire commonwealth. For instance, to find the seller of any piece of property in any part of the area for which this office has responsibility, from the time between 1830 and 1915, the data is confined to but four moderate sized books at the registration office and if you sold a piece of property at any time between those dates, or any ancestors of your name, it can be traced within an hour. The same is true in regard to persons who have bought property and the data concerning them is confined to four books. This is what is called a consolidated index and it is a modern and scientific method of keeping accurate track of the 500,000 documents or instruments which have been filed at this office, and not only to keep accurate track of them but to make the matter of finding out where they are stored a matter of but a few minutes' search. This is a system that has been brought up to its present efficiency by Registrar Purcell and his assistants.

The Lowell Driving club has the stage all set for its fine program of horse races on July 4. The races will include a free-for-all trot or pace; 2:30 trot or pace and a 2:30 trot, and there are already 13 entries for the 2:30 class, mostly from out of town. In addition to the races there will be a band concert and the club's live wires are leaving no stone unturned to make the affair the greatest event in the line of horse racing that the city has ever seen.

HEBREW SCHOOL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the children of the Lowell Hebrew Free school will be held at Golden Cove park tomorrow afternoon and a large crowd of youngsters as well as grownups are expected to turn out for the event. COUNTENET BILL

Counterfeit $10 bills are being circulated in many cities of the state, Supt. Welch stated today, and he has reason to believe that they may show up in Lowell. The bills have been "raised" from a $1. to a $10 note, and are easy to detect, the chief says. Any appearance of these phony greenbacks should be phoned immediately to the station.

FINE SUNDAY PROGRAM AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEA-

TRB TOMORROW

Mme. Olga Petrova in "The Light Within," and Douglas Fairbanks in "Mr. Fix-It" will be the leading attractions at the Merrimack Square theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening and the usual surrounding Sunday program will also be shown.

"Secret Service," William Gillette's famous stage success which had New York, Boston and other large cities in its spell for months, will be the feature attraction for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The leading role will be played by Robert Warwick, lately a captain in the United States army on the staff of General Pershing, man of splendid physique and much personal magnetism.

A most gripping drama, and outlined is as follows:
Lewis Dumont, captain in the northern army, and an expert telegrapher, is detailed to assist his brother Henry of the United States secret service, in plan to capture Richmond, the Confederate capital, by strategy. Disguised as a captain in the Confederate army, Dumont makes his way into the life of Howard Varney, a wounded rebel officer. Lewis Dumont, as "Capt. Thorne," is brought into Richmond with other wounded, and through Howard's introduction, becomes a friend of the Varney family, and falls in love with Howard's sister, Edith. Arrested and imprisoned, is head of the Confederate secret service, and becomes suspicious of Lewis. Through his orders are sent to Lewis to leave Richmond. Edith hears of it, and from the president's secretary, a mission for Lewis to be placed in charge of the telegraph office. Henry Dumont permits himself to be made a prisoner and is taken to Libby's. He does this to convey to Lewis word that on Lewis might the false orders must be sent. Arrested, Lewis plans to escape and follows him to the Varney home. There the brothers come face to face. Arrested, Lewis plans to shoot himself so that it shall appear that Lewis did his duty in capturing the escaped prisoner. Henry dies. Lewis is cleared and gets the message over the wires. He does not know about the arrest when Edith appears with the commission giving Dumont full charge of the service. He convinces the authorities of his guilt. He is arrested at the Varney home, court martialled and sentenced to die as a spy. The Varney family wins a commutation and he is imprisoned. After the war he and Edith are united. It would be difficult to assemble a finer cast than that chosen for "Secret Service." Headed by Major Robert Warwick, it includes such famous screen players as Theodore Roberts, Wanda Hawley, Ray and Hutton, Carson Ferguson, Edith Chapman, Irving Cummings, Robert Calne, Guy Oliver and Lillian Leighton.

The second feature for the first half of the week will be Charles Ray, the popular star, in his latest production, "The Lady of Red Butte." The situations are novel and exciting. It will tickle the lovers of the western American game, for there are some sub-plots of diamond snatching. It is especially interesting to those who saw Ray in his previous baseball picture, "The Pinch Hitter," in which he played the role of a star player.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will bring an excellent Fourth of July bill. Alice Brady in "The Indestructible Wife," and Dorothy Dalton in "The Lady of Red Butte," will be the outstanding features. The usual comedy, International News and Burton Holmes Travel Pictures will complete the program.

QUICK BENEFIT FROM GROUP INSURANCE

Hardly had the group insurance plan, recently taken on by the American Woolen company, which has plants in Lowell and vicinity, been in force a week, when two deaths among employees of the corporation took place and two poor families immediately benefited by the financial provisions of the policy which had been given to the head of their families by the employer.

One case was that of a workman named Edmund Hirst, employed in one of the American Woolen company's mills at Lawrence. He had been working for the company but one month, yet the provisions of the policy were such that within one hour after the American Woolen company had notified the company with whom it has its insurance contract, the Travelers Insurance company of Hartford, that Hirst had passed away, the Hartford company mailed a check for $750 to the stricken and bereaved widow. When it is realized that she is left with two small children, the benefits of this group insurance plan for working people are easily seen.

The other case was that of a man at Providence named Joseph T. Turbitt. He died last Tuesday morning. He had been a faithful worker for the American Woolen company since 1892 and his mother was given the maximum amount coming under the terms of the workers' insurance policy, the sum of $1500, sufficient to carry her comfortably through her old age.

The company had an arrangement whereby a waiting period is provided for employees taken on after June 15th, the date when the contract became effective. But the company included in the contract for group insurance it bought, all persons actually in the employ of the company on June 15th, so that a person hired June 14th, if he died June 15th, became eligible to the provisions so benevolently provided by the group insurance plan.

NEW RESTAURANT BUSINESS
Miss Elizabeth Woodward, for the past five or more years, owner of the Wild Rose Tea room in Merrimack street, will give up her present place of business on or about July 15 and soon thereafter will take over the store on the ground floor of the Burrback building in Prescott street, now occupied by the United Wall Paper Co. Edwin T. Shaw will be associated with Miss Woodward in the new business. They have an optional lease of five years.

It is planned to call the new business a soda shop, although it will include a large luncheon room for men and women. The furnishings will be of the very best quality and it is probable that the booth arrangement will be followed, patterned after several of the Boston shops and those throughout the west.

The plans for the new shop are most comprehensive and modern. It is now believed that huge, chilled show cases will be utilized for the exhibition of food instead of the usual counter method. The basement also will be used and all kitchen work will be done there, thus assuring absolute relief from the usual clutter of dishes. Miss Woodward has become exceptionally well known during her operation of the tea room and her friends will gladly welcome this extensive change.

CADILLAC CAR SCORES IN YEARLY MOUNTAIN CLIMB AND WINN DISTINCTION

American enterprise and resource have again been felt in Europe. An American-made automobile has this year received the honor annually bestowed upon the first motor car to cross the Vosges mountains at Le Thillot Pass.

Engulfed in snow, and encountering dangerous obstacles at almost every turn, an official army Cadillac, which had been driven 68,000 miles, passed over the Vosges mountains at Le Thillot Pass, and descended, covered with snow, to the little village of Courmagny.

For years the French have given great acclaim to the first car making this passage before the first of June. The passage of the Cadillac was on May 11. The snow drifts were almost impassable, though spring thaws had already begun.

The feat of the Cadillac was witnessed by three French generals. The car was driven by Lieut. M. F. Taggart, of Boston, and was accompanied by Lieut. M. F. Hurl, Indianapolis, Sergt. Horace G. Mockett, Swissvale, Pa., and Lieut. B. W. Johnson, Oklahoma City.

After the trying trip over the mountain, the Cadillac was driven 150 kilometers in an hour and five minutes, from Epinal, France, to Nancy.

After a long line in which Lowell people who were familiar with the famous Chandler motor car's excellent qualities in design and general all round quality, had to journey to Boston to purchase this car, it is pleasing news to the public at large to know that one of the best known auto sales agents in Boston and the entire New England territory, Leonard J. Bartel, has come to Lowell and will from this time on push the sale of this nationally advertised car in this city and vicinity. The agency here will be operated under the name of the Chandler Motors of Lowell. Its place of business will be at the corner of Palmer and Middle streets where the six types of Chandler cars can be seen on exhibition, starting July 1st. Later in the summer the Chandler people will commence to take orders for their new light six, a lighter weight car sold at a lower price and of course giving good value for the money, and this model will in due time be seen at the warehouses of the company in Middle street.

Opening July 1st.

ECONOMY WITHOUT SACRIFICE

THE CHANDLER SIX is economical in cost of operation. It is a big car, 123-inch wheel base, but it weighs a little less than 3000 pounds. The Chandler motor is powerful and instantly responsive, but 14 to 16 miles per gallon of gasoline is the common report from owners. Six thousand to eight thousand miles per set of tires is the usual tire-service rendered Chandler owners.

You are asked to pay much more for cars which might perhaps be compared with the Chandler. And cheap cars sell for but little less.

BICYCLES

Yale and Harley-Davison Bicycles

For Men, Women and Children

A bicycle should be a part of the American home; it is more useful and more necessary than many things which we have in our homes.

Men: Ride to work on a bicycle.

Women: Ride a bicycle for exercise.

Boys and girls: There is no kind of play which is so healthful. The exercise which comes from riding a bicycle puts real strength into the muscles of the body, so ride a bicycle, boys and girls.

Parents: A boy or a girl around the home is very handy to do errands, did you ever think of it?

Your boy should have a Yale or a Harley-Davison bicycle to ride in the Fourth of July parade and win a prize. Boys and girls, ask the bicycle dealers about the parade; give them your name as being one of the ones to ride in the bicycle division.
